Headline:
Coastal showers tonight turning wintry inland. Widespread frost inland.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly clear skies overnight in the south and west leading to a rather widespread frost. Showers affecting Norfolk and northern parts of Suffolk, these increasingly turning to sleet or snow at low levels. Remaining breezy. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Thursday:
Bright or sunny periods in the west and likely remaining dry. Cloudier further east. Some wintry showers near coasts through the day. Brisk winds at first, easing later. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rain sweeping east early Friday, then dry, bright and cold later. Breezy, chilly and occasionally wet on Saturday. Probably drier Sunday with lighter winds, though still rather cold.
